WHY DON'T RATS HELP ME, IS GOMPERS' CRY

President of American Federation of Labor, at Banquet, Champions Free Speech.

"I PLEAD FOR NO MERCY"

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, spoke bitterly of the contempt proceedings still pending against him and his associates in the United States Supreme Court at the annual banquet last night of the Washington Building Trades Council at the Raleigh Hotel.

The rats have caten part of the record of the investigation of the mismanage-ment, if nothing more, of the New Haven Railroad," said he. "I wonder if some of these rats can't be imported to eat up the records of the case new pending in the Supreme Court against me and my associates. I cannot help thinking of this, for in a few days the court may hand down its decision in this case.

This is a protest against any court America attempting to deny to any tizen of this country the freedom of

MISSES WILSON TAKE PART IN 'BIRD MASQUE

Miss Margaret Sings and Miss Eleanor Again Appears as "Ornis," the Bird Spirit.

HAVE DISTINGUISHED AUDIENCE

New York, Feb. 24.-In the presence of a der most distinguished patronage, headed by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President of the United States, Percy Mackaye's "Bird Masque" was given in the ball room of the Hotel Astor

The masque was written for the dedication of the bird sanctuary of the Mer-iden Bird Club last summer. More than ordinary interest attached to the perormance tonight, which was literally by the same cast as last summer, be-cause of the appearance of Miss Eleanor Wilson as Ornis, the bird spirit, and the rendering of incidental songs by Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson.

This was the first time that a New York audience had enjoyed a spectacle in which two daughters of a President

HUERTA, AFTER DRUNKEN DEBAUCH WITH JAPANESE OFFICERS, ORDERS FORMER ADVISER TO BE SHOT

Dictator Sobers, However, Before His Command to Kill Friend Is Carried Out.

New York, Feb. M.—James Creeiman, under date of Mexico City, in tonight's Evening Mail, tells the following story about Huerta:

On the night of Huerta's banquet to the Japanese officers in the Care Colon the dictator had a group of shameless women dance for his guests and by 3 e'clock in the morning he was blind drunk and had to be assisted to a bed up stairs.

Then the officer returned and waited until Huerta awoke.

"My president, I have disagreeable news to report," he faltered. "Urutia cannot be found and I have been unable to carry out your orders."

"My orders? Why, what did you intend to do to my friend Urutia."

"You ordered me to shoot him."

"Wha-s-at!" shrieked Huerta, "if you had shot him I would have killed you. Never, never take my orders when I am drunk."

The other day an American citizen to whom the government owes 200,000 peasos for army uniforms talked too openly about the failure of the authorities to Huerta has actually established a Presidential office in this resort, where he transacts public business, and it is a fact the prisoner the American consul general, that he has compelled his Cabinet to hold several meetings there.

When he reached his bed after the Japanese debauch, the dictator called one of his onicers to him and said:

"I'm sick of this —, Dr. Urutia (formerly his Minister of the Interior, and his closest adviser), and I want you to find him at once, shoot him and report to fine."

In an attempt to secure the release of the prisoner the American consul general, dr. Shanklin, searched the city for the dictator.

He finally found Huerta behind the seenes in a theater with a painted-actress in tights and short skirts on each knee and another actress, with her arms around his neck, plying him with brandy. When the consul general entered find him at once, shoot him and report to find him and ordered them to retire. Japanese debauch, the dictator called one of his ornicers to him and said:

"I'm sick of this —, Dr. Urutia (formerly his Minister of the Interior, and his closest adviser), and I want you to find him at once, shoot him and report to me."

Whereupon the drunken despot rolled over and went to sleep.

Dr. Urutia was at once warned of his peril and went into hiding.

He finally found Huerta behind the scenes in a theater with a painted-actress in tights and short skirts on each knee and another actress, with her arms around his neck, plying him with brandy. When the consul general entered Huerta laughingly pushed the women from him and ordered them to retire. Then he listened to the plea for the American prisoner, signed a card ordering his immediate release and at once called the actresses back to him.

The French horn solo that begins the "nocturne," however, was not only faulty by reason of all lack of shading, but for want of more perfect legato. The scherzo was, for perfection of performance, unsurpassable.

Members of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, appointed at the recent convention of that body in this city, met last night at the Riggs Building. The purpose of the meeting was a general consideration of the administration's proposed anti-trust legislation. Sessions were held also in the morning and afternoon.

The chairman of the committee is R. G. Rhett, of Charleston, S. C. Those in session with him were Guy E. Tripp, chairman of the board of directors; Charles F. Mathewson, of New York; William L. Saunders, and President Charles R. Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin, Louis D. Brandeis, a member of the committee, will join its work later. Prof. Henry R. Seager, of Columbia University, was detained in New York, but sent in written form his views relative to the work of the committee.

Three more sessions will be held today, and the committee will continue in session as long as is necessary to give careful excellenced anti-sion as long as is necessary to give care-ful consideration to all proposed anti-trust legislation. The committee is also receiving suggestions from business men and commercial organizations.

and commercial organizations.

Chairman Rhett, in a statement last night, said: "This special committee of the National Chamber on Anti-trust Legislation does not conceive its work to be that of criticism, but rather of helpful co-operation with Congress.

"We conceive it to be our duty in dealing with the principles involved in the President's message to make suggestions that will be helpful to Congress, since.

that will be helpful to Congress, since upon the wisdom of Congress in legis-lating relative to the business adjust-ments of the United States, depends much of the business stability of the nation.

I was deeply impressed today with the earnestness and self-sacrifice of the members of the committee, who have put aside all personal matters in order to serve the National Chamber and through it the business interests of the nation."
